

April 2018

Warmer weather is coming!

That means the mosquitoes will be back—and so will heartworms. Heartworms are parasites passed to dogs through mosquitoes. They eventually grow to become blood-consuming worms within your dog's arteries, heart, and lungs. Heartworms clog the circulatory system and eventually cause death.

The good news is heartworm disease is easily prevented. Just bring your pet in for a visit before the mosquitoes come out, and we will perform a quick blood test. The test not only detects heartworm, but three tick transmitted diseases, as well.

We can also provide you with the necessary preventative medication. This prescription product is available in a monthly chewable form. Stop in today for more information.